Even though you probably will not encounter problems on the water, it is best to be prepared.

1. Do not get in a canoe, kayak or boat if you cannot swim.
2. Always wear a certified life jacket when on or near the water.
3. Before you go, learn to safely launch, land, and paddle your canoe or kayak.
4. Study the river. Know the course, speed and difficulty of the river.
5. Take your first paddle trip with experienced paddlers. Being alone on the water can be disastrous in the event of an emergency.
6. Always tell someone where you are going and provide a schedule of when you will return.

Landings or tie-ups can be made on all publicly owned land marked on this map. Do not land on private property except in emergencies.

- ## River Etiquette
- Remember that you share the river with wildlife, other paddlers, and people who live on the shores.
 - Bring your quiet voice onto the water. Turn off radios, video games, and cell phones. Others appreciate it and you'll be rewarded by seeing more birds and other wildlife.
 - In fragile areas, paddle slowly and keep your distance. Disturbance of wildlife can interfere with their feeding and breeding.
 - Carry out all trash that you bring, plus some you may find.
